Real blasting could commence this week

By Monica Dick
They used about a half pound of dynamite to create a "visual effect" for operators at the ground turning ceremony for the new Drayton Valley Hospital last week, but contractors for the $18 million project say the real blasting will get under way this week.

However, Fred Winward with Cavan Construction Ltd. said he also wanted to reassure residents the company isn't anticipating a repeat of the incident at the ground breaking, where one person was injured when a stray rock chip dislodged in the blast struck him on the head.

"There's little danger of anything like that ever happening again," Mr. Winward said, adding that all necessary safety precautions will be taken with this phase of the hospital's construction.

The contractors have to clear out some underground rock to accommodate a basement and footings for the new facility, and that will be using explosives to move the rock, Mr. Winward said the blasting will be done underground by drilling into the rock and placing the charges inside. The earth covering should ensure that none of these rock chips will become airborne, Mr. Winward said.

"There will be a lot of a whump-whump, but that's about it," he added. "Most people who've ever known there's been an explosion."

The drilling rig, however, will make their presence known. They make one half of a day," he added.

Residents in the area of the blasting will be notified by the company via a letter.

By Suzanne Greenway
Graduation ceremonies have been planned for high schools in Breton, Evansburg and Drayton Valley beginning in late June.

The first of the three towns to hold its Grade 12 graduation will be Breton with ceremonies beginning on June 30.

The evening will begin with a banquet followed by the graduation exercises and perhaps a dance, said principal Walter Wraynack of the Breton High School.

He added that approximately 80 graduates are expected to be involved in this year's ceremonies. Only those students who actually graduate will be involved in the exercises because the evening will begin at 8 p.m. with a graduation banquet, followed by ceremonies at 9 p.m., said principal J.E. Williams.

Mr. Williams added that the students are also looking into the possibility of having a dance.

There are approximately 70 students graduating from the school this year.

Frank Maddock High School has its graduations in the fall. This way the ceremony serves two purposes for it acts as a homecoming in addition to being a graduation.

Those who are on stage have actually graduated and are "12th class, 14 class, 16 class," said principal R. B. Wade.

FHMS to present dinner theatre nights

"Keep Moving," a three-act comedy, is now in the production stage. On June 8 and 9 the Drama 30 and Food Science department classes of Frank Maddock High School will be using the above play in their version of Stage Wars.

The buffet dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the entertainment commencing at 7 p.m. The dinner and entertainment will be held at the school.

The students of the Drama and Food Science departments have worked hard in arranging this dinner theatre and would greatly appreciate the support of the community.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under and senior citizens. Purchase of tickets may be made through the students involved or at the high school by June 4.

Blowout needs your help

June 11 and 12 promise to be big days on the calendars of residents in Drayton Valley and the surrounding district. We've got a Blowout Days celebration planned with everything from petefest breakfasts to a parade, and the ever-popular Evergreen Rodeo also promises to deliver quite a lot of action to keep any crowd entertained.

Local celebrations like this are one reason why life living in a small town. Coming from the big city originally (Calgary), I grew up with that something like a fair would have to be big in order to be good. But my experiences at the annual Stampede (silly named with the number of people who attend) soon proved it's more fun to keep it small and simple.

It's nice to be able to walk around and enjoy events, as well as to be able to greet people you know doing the same thing. In my trips to the Calgary Stampede over many years, I've only run into acquaintances on these occasions.

A small core of dedicated people have worked long and hard to ensure this year's Blowout Days and the town's 25th birthday celebrations will be events to remember. They've done all the work so we can enjoy, and yet a check I did this past week seems to indicate there aren't too many people who are planning to participate.

I take the parade for example. It's not for June 12 at 11 a.m., and will feature nine different categories for entries and prizes for the best in each. You'd think people would jump at the chance to display a little creative effort in designing floats and the like, but as of last week the committee organizing the event only had six entries.

With that many interested, we could have the shortest procession in the history of parades in the town. People—everybody loves a parade. Let's get those entry forms in to Sheldon Fuson at the town office in the next week.

It's not going to make his job any easier if you leave everything until the last possible minute.

The same could be said with entries to the Old West event set for June 11 at the Blue Hat. There's been a lot of planning put into this event, and it's probably to be every bit as entertaining as the Gong Show event that prompted two showings about a year ago. Get those entries in early.

The usual complaint I hear about local celebrations is there isn't enough to keep the younger set occupied, but that sure isn't the case with Blowout Days. From Saturday's parade they can move onto the midway at West Valley Park, and for the ball team set there's a minor ball tourney scheduled as well in the afternoon.

The local pool has races and a fun afternoon of swimming set at Rotary Park, and they're rounding this off with the Lions' barbecue dinner at West Valley Park.

I'm looking forward to my first Blowout Days in Drayton Valley, and I hope the events get the crowds they deserve to bolster the efforts put into planning this celebration for the town.

Perspectives

By Roxanne Greenley

It started off as nothing more complicated than a description of a trip to B.C., however, a chance remark by a friend soon changed all that.

"Where does Claire live?" he asked.

"Claire who?" I replied in complete bewilderment. I was not sure of who Claire was or just how she got into the conversation.

"You know, the one you went to visit," he said. "I didn't get to visit any... then I suddenly dreamed of me. 'You mean Claire?'"

After considerable explaining I was finally able to convince him that Claire was the name of a town rather than a person who I was visiting.

Prior to this, I had given little thought to many of the unusual names that exist around Alberta.

Coming from B.C. (a province which delights in some of the more unusual place names such as Yale, Squamish and Yoho) the acronymization process for Alberta town names was not all that great.

Although I must admit I have been surprised from time to time by the wide diversity of names which appear across the province.

Some of the places such as Medicine Hat have well publicized legends behind their naming while other towns, also with interesting names, carry their names in relative obscurity.

It is interesting to just look on a map and pick up some of the names which are rather unusual. I often wonder how places such as Strand OR, Enchant and Henry Hill received their names.

There certainly must be a story behind the naming of Invermay Portage or the village of Blindman. Not to mention some of the more acute names such as Boulder OR, Bowden OR and Purple Spoke OR.

Then of course if one is interested in visiting the homes of royalty they can always go to Baffin, Monarch, Carr, Durbach, Queenstown, Gauntlett, Empress or Royal Park.

If they really have pretensions to royalty they can always stop briefly at Thorne.

Finally there are those highly descriptive names which relate not only to the countryside but often the flora and fauna of the area. These include places such as Arrowwood, Beaver Crossing, Manyberries, Bannockburn, Blundell and Monticello.

I remember the first time I came to Drayton Valley and saw the Violet Grove nursery. I was fascinated by the name. I couldn't leave until I had checked out the place to see if there actually were any violets.

Much to my disappointment I didn't see any, however, I did see Violet Grove.

Since that time I have also satisfied my curiosity about places such as Yamskank, Rocky Rapids, Knapthill and Bowditch. I have yet to check out Cocking Lake, Chocoma Valley, Deadwood, Tappan Creek and Nook.

Then again I might get my vacation plans to include short stops in Bick Valley and Diamond City, for you never know what you might find in places like that.

Mother explains trainee's story

Dear Editor:

In reference to the May 25, 1982 issue of the Western Review's article "Trainee to Let Go", the mother of the trainee in question, would like to make those statements, knowing full well they are true.

Regarding the claim that Donna viciously attacks the wheelchair trainee—I know for a fact we do not have any wheelchair at the Beehive Workshop at the present time. All of the trainees are capable of walking around in the workshop.

• The Beehive director failed to have telephoned me "on at least four occasions." The only job phone call I received from the workshop in the past year was from the time-lapse on the 17th of May, 1982, informing me that Donna was in her car and working it.

I offered to come to the workshop to give assistance but was told not to bother, that they would settle it. Upon arriving home, Donna was crying, upset and bruised. (Why was Donna left unattended outside and what else happened?)

• On May the 26th, 1982, myself and my younger daughter went to the association meeting, as we were told we would get an opportunity to air our views. Upon asking the association why my other daughter was dismissed from the workshop, and why Donna was put in the Times Out room, we were immediately informed that this was not the time or the place to bring these matters up.

We were then told to come to the May 17, 1982 board of directors meeting and they would talk to us at that time. At the May 17 meeting, the chairman of the board met us at the door and said we were not invited here and he didn't think it was his business. I was very much appalled and helped to make our do I do, where do I turn, who do we talk to, I need help for Donna."

• Regarding the Times Out room, when I last saw it there was a small window in the room, but it was covered by the picture of the kitchen, making it dark inside the room. (Who ever saw it?) In conclusion, I would like to ask what this facility was built for—whether it is a sheltered workshop or is it no handicap? I understand it to be a sheltered workshop and I am willing to discuss our problems at any time.

Why won't the association talk to me or any other thing something?

The Western Review called on Friday, May 21, 1982 for a report. I was in the hospital with pneumonia, so I could not comment. On Saturday, May 26, 1982, I am making my comments now.

Grease enjoyed by all

Dear Editor:

The 1982 dramatic and musical season is every to a good start with the new production of Grease—a delightful collection of terrific songs and music numbers that only the veterans and youngsters in our schools could perform.

I with countless others, watched a show that had everything worthwhile in it. From catchy new tunes (I had not heard before) to some of the old favorites dressed up in modern garb, I am sure that the rafters and seats in the gym at E.W. Fisk will serve as the stage after this week's production of Grease.

There must have been hours of rehearsal in this hall; after all there is no business like show business and no people like show people. They live in a world where they are determined to bring happiness to every one, regardless of crowd, color or race that is what life is all about.

I shall always be a believer of Lynne Handley's, all the Momma, Assamie Beach, the Swinging Jo-Jos, K.P. Jones, Terri Giffis and the production crew that makes a show run and stick. Of course the orchestra was fantastic. The Yalmies is a master in the way of rhythmic music. We have great music playing. I may have overreacted some but, intentionally. More power to the beautiful and talented people in our town!

Wes Rawlin: I think it's a good idea. It does help. They're not as terrible, they're overpopulated.

William Semeshuk: Yes, I guess so. They're money when you get as many of them.

Altercation mars high school victory over Evansburg

Frank Maddock's boys' soccer team played what would have been a 4-1 victory over Evansburg's Grand Trunk High School.

The win was marred by an altercation at the game's conclusion which saw an unidentified Evansburg player punch Drayton Valley's Chris Cinto in the nose.

Experience beats youth

It was a contest of youth and enthusiasm against age and experience as the boys' soccer team from Frank Maddock High School played Drayton Valley's Evansburg in an exhibition game last Wednesday.

Evansburg, the local minor league team, came out on top 4-1, but not without a good fight from their high school opponent.

Frank Maddock kept the pressure on in the first half, it wasn't until late in the game Evansburg took the advantage.

Simon Kelly, who has taken on the dual role of coach and parent, said he was impressed with the way the Evansburg players played. A strong team with many players taking part.

Quick Kelly said he was glad to see his players stick to their teammates, but he was also impressed by the restraint they showed in not letting the situation get out of hand. The Evansburg player who initiated the brawl has been suspended, he said.

the Evansburg players rose to the occasion.

He added the high schoolers were obviously up for the game, and it showed in their inspired effort against Evansburg. Frank Maddock had a few good scoring opportunities, but they couldn't put the ball past their coach (Kelly) in the second half.

THE DAY THE TREE SWALLOWS CAME BACK TO WHITEWOOD MINE

One of a series on Alberta's largest electric utility.

At TransAlta Utilities, we've been doing a lot of things for a long time to make surface mine land more productive and more useful after we've finished with it.

In 1976, we got together with the Stony Plain Fish and Game Association and agreed on a proposal to improve wildlife habitat on a portion of our Whitewood Mine, north of Whiteman Lake, which we had reclaimed and seeded in 1969.

The proposal was for our people, the Fish and Game Association, the Alberta Fish and Wildlife Division and the Department of Agriculture to work co-operatively together to improve a five acre parcel of land, which was formerly used, so that it could function as a wildlife habitat.

In 1976, the work began. Volunteers from TransAlta and the Stony Plain Fish and Game Association obtained seedlings of White Spruce, Jackpine, Manitoba Maple, Silver Willow and several other species.

The ground cover essential for wildlife had begun to grow. By 1978, several groups of trees were well along and had become frequented by moose and whitetail deer. Both ruffed and sharp-tailed grouse were seen in numbers. By 1980, a coyote had decided that the White-wood Wildlife habitat was comfortable enough to raise her family in.

The results were encouraging. An area that had been used productively to provide Albertans with power, was being used productively for recreation. But perhaps the best co-ordination of all was an event that happened in 1981. Two nesting sites on the habitat produced broods of young birds.

The tree swallows had come back to Whitewood Mine. TransAlta Utilities. Power for Albertans is our prime concern.

Young bowler competes in finals

Darcy Berger didn't let a bad case of the flu stop him at the 1982 National Youth Bowling Championships held in Saskatoon, Sask., on May 7, 8 and 9.

Despite his illness, the 10-year-old Drayton Valley resident put in three strong days of bowling to finish fifth in the Junior boys' division. He was representing the local Twilight Bowls in the competition sponsored by the Youth Bowling Council.

Darcy said he feels he could have played even better if not for the sickness which lasted throughout the finals. He bowled a total of 28 games in the three days, and received a certificate of appreciation for his efforts.

The talented youngster, a student at Elementary B School, hopes to take part in next year's national finals held in Sudbury, Ontario.

He qualified for the Saskatoon event by successfully working his way up the Four Steps to Stardom youth bowling program. Starting with local play at Twilight Bowls, Darcy advanced through some provincial qualifying rounds on his way to the national.

While bowling is obviously his main recreational interest, Darcy also likes to take part in a wide variety of other activities including football. He has pulled a high grade of 200 in his three years in the sport.

Grease—boy meets girl story charms capacity crowds

By Suzanne Greenley
Grease certainly was the word last Thursday night as the Drayton Valley Players were brought on stage again and again for encores following their second performance in the play's five-day run.

A near capacity crowd was present for the musical and seemed to enjoy the local group's performance at H.W. Pickup School.

The musical, which was highly reminiscent of the 1950s included everything from drive-in movies and hot cars to prom nights and the inevitable hamburger joint.

In storyline followed a typical boy meets girl pattern. However, the plot had more than a few twists as the characters' varying ideals and expectations tended to complicate matters.

For the most part the musical was just plain fun with more than a few jokes and lively songs.

The entire cast of Grease put on a good performance although there were some high lights such as Sandy Dumbrowski (Sharon MacKinnon) and Danny Zuko (Ray Munsell) singing "Summer Nights" and "You're the One That I Want."

One can't forget Roger (Jason Colby) as the Mooning Champ of Rydel High or Rizzo (Jo-Anne Kilgus) as the resident bad girl who laments her fate with "There are Worse Things I Could Do."

Then of course there is the dance contest with Danny and Cha Cha DiGregorio (Brenda Prentice) doing some fancy footwork to win the Rydel High title.

There is also some background action which proves rather funny such as when the teacher, Miss Lynch (Lynne Beasley), gets rather tight on some spiked punch at the prom or when the movie soundtrack comes on during the drive-in scene.

The movie sounds exactly like some B grade thriller which is sure to be entitled "My Brother the WereWolf."

All in all the cast, the artistic director Terri Gills, the musical director Tim Yakinow, the choreographers Brenda Prentice and Alvina Sperring, as well as the orchestra and crew did a professional job on Grease.

With any luck at all the Drayton Valley Players will be back again next year to turn in a similar performance.

FMHS girls honored for sportsmanship

The girls' soccer team from West Middle School put in a good showing at the north-central zone playoffs, taking most sportsmanlike team honors.

Drayton Valley's only win at the tournament played on May 8 was a 5-0 score over Grande Cache. The local girls lost their three other games. Hinton was the eventual playoff winner.

Despite the losses, the Frank MacLeod side has shown lots of enthusiasm and all team members agree to play. About 20 girls are representing the high school this year.

In another game on May 10 in Evansburg, MacLeod's goalkeepers were the girls to a 1-0 victory over Grand Trunk High School. Drayton Valley received a strong effort from every member of the roster to capture the title.

RCMP arrest one in break in incidents

Drayton Valley RCMP are currently investigating a break-in which occurred sometime between May 20 and 21 at the liquor store.

The thieves apparently broke out the glass in the back window and removed eight cases of beer through the hole, one bottle at a time, said Corporal Tom Turner.

Operation Identification set

Home and business security programs will once again be starting up this June according to Drayton Valley RCMP.

The program known as Operation Identification and Project Providers will be used to mark both personal and business property against theft.

If anyone is found would like to have their goods marked they should contact the local RCMP detachments and ask for Junior Arnold, the project leader, to make an appointment, said RCMP Constable Doug Hill.

Juvenile charged

A juvenile has been charged with break, enter and theft under Section 300 of the Criminal Code following a break-in at the Debbie Workshop in Drayton Valley.

A 17-year-old Drayton Valley youth, who was arrested in connection with several break, enter and thefts, has been remanded in custody until June 5.

Alvin Gordon Porter has been charged with two counts of theft over $100 as well as a charge of break, enter and theft from the $ and W Dairy King on May 14 and the attempted theft of a vehicle from Sunshine Ford on May 16, said RCMP Corporal Chris Lee.

Take care of property

Police are warning local residents to take care of their personal belongings during the warm summer weather.

"We have had a number of thefts over the last week that relate to summer activities and people leaving things lying around," said Corporal Chris Lee.

In the performance wagon class, Mary Laurier of Drayton Valley finished first, with Ed Lauer taking third place in this event.

The winner was Don Theobald of Haldy.

THE BUILDING MUSCLES of this team attest to the weight they are pulling at the heavy horse pull at West Valley Park on Sunday. The air was full of laughter's commotion and just as pairs of animals pulled up to 2000 lbs.

Put those dandelions to use in a spring salad

If you ever notice a dandelion plant? If you have seen them, it's a good time to try one or to use dandelion leaves as a substitute for spinach.

According to Alberta Agriculture's assistant food specialist, Helen Raynard, young tender dandelion leaves make a delicious salad, and they contain large amounts of Vitamin A, B, C and E. Mature dandelion leaves are equally nutritious but they develop a bitter taste as they mature.

When collecting dandelion leaves, you should cut off the plants at the root crown so that you get a cluster of leaves that fold together. If you wash them first in lukewarm water, you will find that the dirt, etc., will come off more easily. Then wash them in cold water as you would any other leafy vegetable.

After you have washed the leaves, drain them and put them in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator to crisp.

If you want to use young tender dandelion leaves as a substitute for spinach, you would cook them in the same way as you would cook spinach. However, if you use mature leaves you should change the cooking water twice to remove the bitter taste.

Starting in October, from Albion University, will be Introductory Psychology, Introductory Anthropology, Humanities 200 (Rise to Big Band), History 204, Economics 201 and Administration 204.

The University of Alberta is planning to offer a graduate course in Educational Administration (comprised of micro-computer and Sociology of the Family (undergraduate, no prerequisites). Other U of A Starting in February will be Albion University courses in Humanities 100 (Rise to Big Band), 200 (Century Novel, Macromolecules, Administrative Principles and Small Business Management).

The intent of the Consortium is to offer a mixture of core and minor courses over the next four years, to make it possible to pursue a degree on either part-time or full-time basis in the Drayton Valley area.

Anyone interested in these courses should contact the Consortium immediately to make a planning aid to get further information, as enrollment restrictions.

A comprehensive offering of credit programs in technology, trades, upgrading and business-related subjects is being planned. Announcements about them will be made in late June.

Hospital News

The monthly meeting of the D.V. Hospital Auxiliary will be held in the hospital board room on May 13 with 18 members present. Vice-president V.J. Foshenough chaired the meeting. Jim Jensen, the hospital administrator, was present to express appreciation for the many extras that have been supplied in the hospital by the money raised in the Thrift Shop. It is to be hoped the new hospital will be opening in June, 1984.

There is to be an area set aside in the new hospital for the use of the auxiliary. The auxiliary is providing all adult male patients in hospital on Father's Day with a breakfast. A picnic has been purchased to hang in the hospital. A metal tag will be attached to it when a new piece of equipment is purchased, saying what it is and giving the date of purchase.

There is to be a dinner preceding the June meeting. The dinner will be at Ouse. The place of the business meeting will be announced later.

We need results

As part of our coverage of minor sports in the Drayton Valley area, the Western Review is interested in publishing the results of any local minor baseball or soccer action.

We'll make an effort to include in our recreation section all game results submitted by league representatives. Deadline is Monday at noon for Wednesday's edition.

Although some games will be covered in person, the large number of teams in both sports make it difficult to publicize all the scores. Therefore, we'd appreciate the co-operation of coaches and parents in supplying this information.

If you have any other information on happenings in minor sports, contact the Western Review's sports department at 542-6385.

Cow doctor fulfills lifelong dream

At the age of four Karvo Josephson informed his mother that she wanted to be a "cow doctor," and since then has never changed her mind.

Today Dr. Josephson, along with her partner Dr. Wayne Thomson and animal health technician Lisa Brecher, operates a veterinary service and clinic out of the Rocky Rapids area.

The five-year-old practice includes both small and large animals with house calls being made within a 50-mile radius of the clinic.

Although the practice began only as a part-time job in 1977, within four months it had developed into a full-time job with more than enough work for Dr. Josephson.

During the first few years the practice catered primarily to large animals and it has only been in the last year with the opening of the clinic that the small animal work has increased.

At present, domestic pets account for approximately 25 per cent of the work, said Dr. Josephson.

She added that the practice is general and for the most part treats mainly of domestic animals. There have, however, been a few unusual cases over the years such as a malnourished eagle which was brought into the clinic by Fish and Wildlife.

Eagle a temporary patient

The eagle only remained at the clinic until it had regained its strength and could be set free, said Dr. Josephson.

Currently the practice operates on a fairly regular routine with small animal appointments in the mornings and larger animals in the afternoons.

Since the clinic has been built, more work is being done with small animals and routine surgery such as spays and castrations are quite common.

The clinic still lacks the proper facilities for orthopedic or bone surgery and laboratory testing. However, these are expected to be added sometime within the next few years, said Dr. Josephson.

The majority of the practice is still done out in the country at the individual farms.

Dr. Josephson went on to say she prefers going out to the farms rather than having the animals brought into the clinic because seeing the animal on its own ground often "gives you a better idea of the total farm environment."

This calls the veterinarian how the farm is managed and gives them a chance to pick up potential problems such as poor drainage or overgrazing, she said.

Most work of the clinic is done outside the clinic it often means working in a big barn at minus 20 degrees F. with the wind blowing through the chinks in the wall, said Dr. Josephson.

She went on to say that veterinary work isn't always done in the sterile, hospital environment which many people imagine.

There are advantages

Dr. Josephson added that although the work can be dangerous at times, there are both advantages and disadvantages to being a woman in a large animal practice.

Although a woman may lack the brute strength needed to handle a large animal such as a cow, her size has its advantages such as in lambing time when many times hands are needed, she said.

In addition to being physically demanding, the work is also emotionally demanding because it's quite often hard to put animals to sleep, said Dr. Josephson.

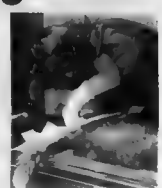

She went on to say that quite often the pet owner will insist on staying while the animal is being put down which makes it difficult not only for the owner but also the veterinarian.

Dr. Thomson, who has been involved with the Rocky Rapids practice for the past two years, agreed that putting animals to sleep can be difficult.

He added that veterinary work often tends to be more stressful than strenuous because one never knows what's going to happen from day to day.

"There are quite a few nights when you will get little or no sleep at all," he said.

Although the job can be dangerous and stressful at times, this is balanced by the fact that there is "always some kind of upside happening," said Dr. Thomson.

Gardeners should plant with beauty in mind

Today is an Embury Day and the moon is in the horns of a scorpion. It is a good time to plant. The sign of Libra, as well as in most quarters and increasing.

Gardeners should plant with beauty in mind. Flower gardens should be completed now. Plant above ground, add to the soil, too.

All arctic projects can be begun with confidence. June 5 to 6 will be in the fruitful water sign of Scorpio and in second quarter and increasing.

Finish planting all crops that produce above ground. Farmers should plant hay and grain crops.

Plants that are planted during Scorpio tend to be hardier, and very plants will grow to great lengths if planted now.

All conditions for yourself and your animals should be brought under Scorpio as well as now.

Scouts enjoy park picnic

By Leah Dyck
This week the Scouts went to the playground for a picnic and then to the movies. It started okay but some Scouts had some trouble eating hamburgers with others dropping parts of candles in the fire and others eating on the burgers. After the food was done some Scouts decided to shake someone's pop, which caused trouble with one Scout getting blooded.
After the camp was cleaned the Scouts went to the movies. Everyone started making jokes but two were left in the end. After that two Scouts slipped and went swimming in the creek.

CWL raises $252 for Fund

By Mary Cumming Others were shown by the members of the Drayton Catholic Women's League who attended the regular monthly meeting held May 17 about the lack of attendance at these meetings.

The March and April meetings could not be attended because of inclement weather. Because only five members were in attendance at the May meeting, it was decided the members of the 1982-83 officers would have to be elected until the June meeting. The meeting would then be one more of the park women become members.

The report on the census for funds for the Women's Short Fund recently carried out in Drayton showed that $252 had been collected.
The proceeds of the bazaar also and tea held for Development and Peace was $150. The Women's League has been forward to the proper group and the C.W.L. will be in touch with all who supported back column.

report on the noon meeting

No stress

By Rev. A.P. Irving
You can reduce stress in your life.

We are all aware that stress is present in the lives of most people today, and in some cases it is very detrimental to physical and mental health.

One of the basic things we must do to reduce stress in our lives is to divert our minds from our worries. The Apostle Paul said, "Think on these things." The things referred to include that which is true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report.

Many years before Moses had left instruction for the people of Israel. They were to meditate on God's law about 10 times a day, when travelling, while working or resting. This is because part of their lives and the rest of their families.

Further, the prophet Isaiah wrote, "Then will I leap like a perfect man, whose mind is stayed on God." (Isaiah 38:18)

Thus we meditate on God's Word and make it a part of our everyday life we find perfect peace.

Let us look again at the practical side as to things we can do that will lead to reducing stress in our daily lives.

Do something for others.
We live in a very self-centred society, and seldom do which who and Helma Williams had attended at Mayington.

June 21 has been considered one of the dates for the annual bazaar for the Drayton C.W.L. council and the 1982-83 calendar teach ers.

We find those who will help others just for the joy of helping. If you are busy helping others you may have less time to think of yourself, and reduce stress.

Take one thing at a time.
Most of us get up in the morning and are faced with a number of things that must be done today. When should we start? What will I do first?

Make a list if you need to and establish what are the priorities. Then take one thing at a time. It will mean you have much you can accomplish with less stress.

Avoid stresses. Regard less of what happens, we usually try to avoid taking the stress. We will have our environment, the way we were brought up, our nature, or the circumstances in which we are today. In the scriptures we have the account of the prodigal son.
He couldn't get along with brother nor his father, so he left home and spent his share of the inheritance on wild living. He came to himself, saw what he had done, and came back to his father. "I have sinned," he said, "and I have sinned."
And in this he found peace and forgiveness.

You can reduce stress in your life, you can have peace.

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM ONE OF EXHIBIT IN ALBERTA

EXHIBIT PROGRAMS: NECESSARY FUNDING PROGRAM

The County of Parkland Board of Education has been forced to undertake a large construction program due to the rapid growth in student enrollment that has occurred within the area.

Council sets 1982 budget

By Meade Dick

The 1982 operating budget for the Town of Drayton Valley approved by council last week was set at $2.6 million, and early indications are local taxpayers could be facing less than a 10 per cent increase in their property taxes this year.

Council has pegged the tax increase at 7.5 per cent, but Town administrator Meade Dick noted this figure was arrived at using only the municipal expenditures as a guideline. It does not take into account calculations from some of the regulations the lower that day pay, he noted, such as the school foundation program; the provincial planning fund; a requisition from the County of Parkland; the separate school levy and the Meridian Foundation bill.

There should be no tax adjustment into the overall picture before the end of June, he added, which could enable council to set the 1982 mill rate for residential, commercial and industrial property at its next meeting on June 24.

The overall tax increase for residential property should be kept at less than $100 for the majority of homeowners, Mr. Dick said, but there are some industrial property owners who could face substantial increases due to the general assessment carried on in Drayton Valley earlier this year. Some industrial property was receiving a bit of a tax break, Mr. Dick said, as it wasn't assessed to current day market prices, but this has been corrected in the new assessment.

The town's overall assessment figure jumped from the $12.5 million used in 1981 to this year's figure of around $14 million, according to figures returned from the Town office on Monday.

The town's 1982 expenditures are down from the $2.5 million it budgeted for 1981, but its general revenues also dropped—from $2.5 million in 1981 to this year's expected revenue of $2.2 million. Mr. Dick noted this decrease was due to lost revenue from equipment rentals not charged to the town.

The town's expected revenue from taxes for 1982 is around $1.6 million, compared to the 1981 figure of about $1.4 million.

Expenditures Up

Council increased expenditures in a number of departments in the 1982 budget. This includes the $300,000 for fire services—up from $253,000 in 1981, and the $100,000 for fire fighting and preventive services—up from $20,000 in 1981.

The biggest jump was in ambulance services and first aid up from $4,010 in 1981 to $20,000. Mr. Dick said the increase takes into account the town's 14 per cent rate share for operating an ambulance service.

Council has budgeted $500,000 for road, street, walk and lighting—up from its 1981 figure of $500,377. The town's water supply and distribution budget jumped to $200,517 from $200,000, and its budget for garbage collection and disposal had increased from $145,000 to $145,500.

The budget also notes increases in the recreation department—from $200,100 this year compared to $200,000 in 1981, and in the library department—from $60,000 in 1982 compared to last year's figure of $53,000.

Lots to eat at Blowout Days

By Suzanne Greenlee

Those who are interested in good food will be pleased to know that this year's Blowout Days offers enough fine fare to satisfy even the most voracious tastes.

Several local groups will be offering meals in conjunction with this year's Blowout celebrations beginning on June 12. The United Church will kick off the event with a potluck breakfast at the curling rink.

The breakfast will begin on Saturday at 7 a.m., and run until 1 p.m. with a hearty meal of pancakes, bacon and eggs, sausage and coffee.

The breakfast is an annual event and has been held in conjunction with the rodeo for the past five years, and was the organizers, Jack McLean.

Mr. McLean added the breakfast is $3.00 for adults with a reduced price for children under 12 years of age.

The United Church breakfast will also be held on Sunday morning from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Later in the day there will be a chuckwagon dinner at the Senior Citizens' Drop-In Centre. The dinner, which is provided by the Senior Citizens' Club of Drayton Valley, will be available following the parade on Saturday.

The chuckwagon dinner is $3.00 per person and includes chicken, potato salad, beans, butter, ice cream, waffles and coffee or tea, and one of the organizers, Debbie Duckert.

Mrs. Duckert went on to say that the dinner is an annual event and has gone on for a number of years.

She added that the dinner will be available as soon as the parade is over and the group will continue to prepare meals as long as people are coming in.

Then on Saturday evening the Blownotes will be holding a barbecue in the Lions Park from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Unlike the other two groups, this is the first event that the Blownotes have had in conjunction with Blowout Days.

"We're just keeping our fingers crossed that it doesn't rain," said one of the organizers, Dave Barrett.

Mr. Barrett went on to say that the Blownotes will be charging by the plate. However, the fee has not yet been decided. It will be as low as possible, said Mr. Barrett.

He added that the meal will include roast beef, baked potatoes, beans and a bun.

They've moved donor clinic

Although the date and location may have been changed, plans are well under way for a Red Cross blood donor clinic.

The clinic, which was originally scheduled for June 16, has now been set for June 21.

The reason for the delay was caused by scheduling conflict at the Legion Hall, said clinic organizer Ty Dahl.

She went on to say that the new blood donor clinic will be held in the Elgin Hall on June 21 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., and the Red Cross is hoping to find at least 175 donors.

To donate blood, a person must be in good health and between the ages of 18 and 65.

Each blood donation, once received, is stored and taken to a central location where it is separated into its various components. These components include plasma, red blood cells, white blood, cryoprecipitate platelets and white blood cells.

The whole blood or its components can then be used to treat a variety of health problems. Whole blood is often used in the case of massive hemorrhages or acute blood loss while the components are used in more specialized circumstances.

These include the treatment of anemia through the use of the concentrated red cells or the use of plasma to help treat burns. There are also many other uses for the components and as such the Red Cross is always interested in the treatment of hemophiliacs and white blood cells for leukemia patients.

Merchants to host sidewalk sale Friday

Drayton Valley's merchants are again going to have a day to show off their wares and services. This year's Sidewalk Sale will be held on Friday, June 4, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the downtown area. Merchants participating in the sale include Bradman's, Drayton Valley Hardware, Drayton Valley Pharmacy, Old Corner Book, Lyle's Jewellery and Billy Smith's Photography.

These merchants will also be holding an outdoor garage sale between 9 a.m. and the majority of the merchants will have their doors open until 5 p.m.
